Laser-sharp questions

VERONICA Denwick from Laser Hair Removal at the Bay believes it is important to ask the right questions to ensure you are in safe hands if you are looking to having hair removed by laser.

So what do you need to know? The salon offers these tips:

1. Ask what training and qualifications staff have. Do they have their laser safety qualifications? Are they qualified nurses or beauty therapists?

2. If the clinic offers you "permanent" hair removal, get that in writing. It is not possible to guarantee permanent hair removal. Permanent reduction can be achieved.

3. The clinic should provide a thorough consultation. Did they assess your skin type and hair colour? Ask about your medical history and any medications you are on?

4. Ask how much experience they have had.

5. Ask friends and family to recommend a reputable clinic.

6. Find a clinic that uses a class-four medical laser. IPL is not a laser. The Light Sheer Diode is considered the gold standard for laser hair removal.

Currently South Australia has no legislation in place to govern the laser hair removal industry, Veronica said.

She believes that this is long overdue and legislation would protect clients from potential injuries that may occur from treatments with an inexperienced practitioner.

Laser Hair Removal at the Bay only employs nurses who hold their laser safety certificate and have had extensive training to ensure safe treatments.
